EDITORIAL COMMENT

Start Right . . .

Feeling sluggish and run down before noon? Got that irritable, nervous attitude lately? Your problem may be that you're not eating a proper breakfast or, even worse, skipping breakfast altogether.

Breakfast literally means to "break a fast." The fast? From suppertime to getting-up-time, of course. This could involve a time period as long as twelve hours or more. Breakfast should, therefore, constitute about one-fourth of our daily requirements. But it has always been and still is a very neglected meal and for these very reasons it deserves our special attention.

Let's look at some excuses about and advantages of breakfast eating.

We've all heard the worn out adages—"I can't eat in the morning" . . . "It's just too early for food." Start the habit gradually but eat something, at least. Get up a bit earlier, work up an appetite, then eat. Not enough time is the chief excuse of breakfast-skippers but with a little planning, this becomes obsolete.

Food surveys tell us that teen agers, as a group, have poor eating habits and that teen-age boys, generally, have better eating habits than girls.

But then, boys, you need it (especially those of you in sports). Active sports are obviously going to take more energy. You can't slack down in the middle of a basketball or football game. Sports require the utmost out of you in physical coordination and you need lots of food high in protein.

And what about us girls who, they tell us, have the poorest diet? Watching weight? Thinking of a crash diet? Forget it! Skipping breakfast is only likely to make you eat twice as much at lunch or supper and snack in between. It would be much better to eat three sensible meals than skip the important one that gets you going for the day.

Academically, studies have shown that the school work of breakfast-skippers improved immensely when they began eating that morning meal.

Eating breakfast might not make you the star athlete, or get you the lead in the play, or push you far ahead in your school work, but when you eat right, you are more likely to feel peppy and enthusiastic about life in general—and that could make all the difference!

. . . And Work Right

Most people take pride in their professions and their proficiency at them. Students should also take pride in their studies. Because, believe it or not, for students school is an occupation. Maybe only a temporary one, but still an occupation.

School should not just be a sideline but the major concern of the student. Each student has a responsibility to maintain as high an average as he can, just as a professional worker is obligated to do his best.

To do his best, a student must have good study habits. They play an important part in learning. No student will attain, much less maintain, a good average unless he spends a sizeable amount of time studying each night. This doesn't mean that every spare minute should be spent studying nor does it mean the weekend should be spent only on homework. There is a happy medium.

When studying, the student should be in a fairly secluded place, at least not in front of the television. If a student is being disturbed constantly, he is not going to be able to concentrate on his studies or make the most of his time.

Studies may not come easily. But in our society they are so necessary. And a person must realize this.

JOHN'S PLACE

Hooray For Class Meetings

Floats Show
Cooperation

—by JOHN TSCHERNE

True Stritch spirit was displayed as throngs of sophomores, juniors, and seniors turned out to work on the various floats. Materials ran out long before the help did.

Goodbye and Good Luck to former assistant principal, Fr. Auth. He's on his way to higher studies and our prayers go with him.

Be sure to read both of the editorials in this issue of Essence. The editorial on study habits, written by Barney Beins, and the one on eating a good breakfast, by Barb Jankowski, consider two very different and vital aspects of a teenager's life and are worth your while.

Welcome, Heinz! Stritch has its first exchange student, Heinz Bartsch from Germany. To find out more about our newest addition to the Stritch family, read Judi Tarsha's feature story on him. (See page 4.)

Shhhhhhh! That's the rule in most libraries; let's make it one in ours. Don't use the library as a refuge from study halls. Have consideration for those who really have assignments to complete.

Let's give the football games back to the students! At our last game (against Fremont), the students were told that they must sit down and watch the game. Why? Because there were adults at the game who couldn't see. We realize that these people have a right to watch the games, but we also know that the students deserve to participate in the games.

Congratulations to the five candidates for '67-'68 Homecoming Queen. I am sure that any one of these girls would make a fine Queen and a representative of Stritch.

Come on, Seniors! Start behaving yourselves in assemblies or the possibility of senior privileges being taken away could arise. Congratulations, girls, on the improvement in behavior during the recent Fr. Auth assembly. Boys, take heed! Stop acting like sheep and start acting like the leaders you're supposed to be.

Hurray for class meetings! It gave us all a chance to see what our class officers do and not what they say they do. It gave all the members of the class an opportunity to speak and take part in the preparations for class activities. It left no reason for students to say that the class officers and the cliques run everything.

Contrary to popular opinion, good grades are still "in!" This fact is illustrated by the fact that 44 students received First Honors and 195 received Second Honors.

THE TARSH BARREL

Cards Migrate For Homecoming

—by JUDI TARSHA

Hi kids!

I hope this column finds you all in good spirits cause it really helps my morale a lot when someone (besides me) laughs at my jokes for a change.

Oh by the way -- Did you hear about the freshman who put "General Stritch" as one of the subjects on his schedule? Oh well!

Since everyone here at Stritch is currently excited about the homecoming, I thought it would be interesting to know just how homecoming came to be here at Stritch. Back in the very first autumn on the face of the earth, a cave was situated where Stritch now stands. A certain caveboy living there planned a feast with a cavegirl he was currently "hung up" on. Since all the Cardinals were then migrating back to Oregon for the fall, they were all invited to the feast, and of course, they was the main dish. After that eventful night, every fall at this time Cardinals have come home to Oregon, and this is how the Cardinal Stritch homecoming came to be.

A new unit of measure has recently been added to the metric system, according to a student in Sr. Florian's 4th period chemistry class. One of the junior boys used "chicken" instead of grams in one of his problems.

Well until next issue, laugh and live it up.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

I am glad to see that our Masses in the chapel are centering around the people who attend them, the teenage students! For a change the kids can really participate in the Mass. Previously, the songs were not the type that a teenage would go for. But now everyone is really a part of the Mass and can identify with it because of the folk music used.

Many thanks to the religion department for bringing our religion to our own level.

Sincerely,
Barney Beins

The boys classes will participate in various games this semester, including flag football, soccer, speedball, and wrestling. Second semester will include basketball, tumbling, and baseball.

Special additions to this semester will be golf, tennis, weight lifting and track.

Sports for the girls include first semester: kick ball, volleyball, basketball, and tumbling. Second semester: hit pin ball, deck tennis, softball and soccer.

The special feature for all gym classes will be co-ed square dancing in the second semester.

Frosh Lose Opening

Four bad centers on purpose spoiled the freshmen football team's opening game against John's. The score was 26-0.

The frosh came back in the second half to hold St. John's scoreless, but just couldn't get their offense going.

Cardinals Battle Generals Tonight

Gridders Look For 3rd Win In Annual Homecoming Game

by JIM JACKSON

The Stritch Cardinals will be looking for their third victory in the third annual homecoming game against Anthony Wayne tonight at Clay Stadium.

The Cards are currently holding a 2-0-1 record as opposed to the Generals' 1-2-0.

Although Anthony Wayne's record isn't very impressive, this could be one of the toughest homecoming games in the history of the school.

Stritch Scoring Leaders

	TD	Pat	Total
Enck	5	0	30
Skeldon	4	2	26
Mutchler	1	0	6
Aubry	0	4	2
Jackson	0	1	1

The Generals' biggest threat is ground gaining, which played a big part in their 18-0 victory over Lake High last Friday night. The Stritch line, consisting of ends Larry Davenport and Mike Daunhauer, Tackles Hank Deck and Jim Jackson, and Guards Dave Reed and Tom Aubry will try to contain their backs.

In past clashes, Stritch holds a 2-0 edge over Anthony Wayne.

1967 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

20	Stritch-Waite	0
20	Stritch-Lima CC	20
33	Stritch-Fremont	12
Sept. 29	Anthony Wayne (Home)
Oct. 6	Sylvania (Away)
Oct. 13	Wauseon (Away)
Oct. 20	Clay (Away)
Oct. 28	Port Clinton (Home)
Nov. 4	St. Francis (Home)

In 1965 the Cardinals downed them 38-20 and last year shut them out 20-0.

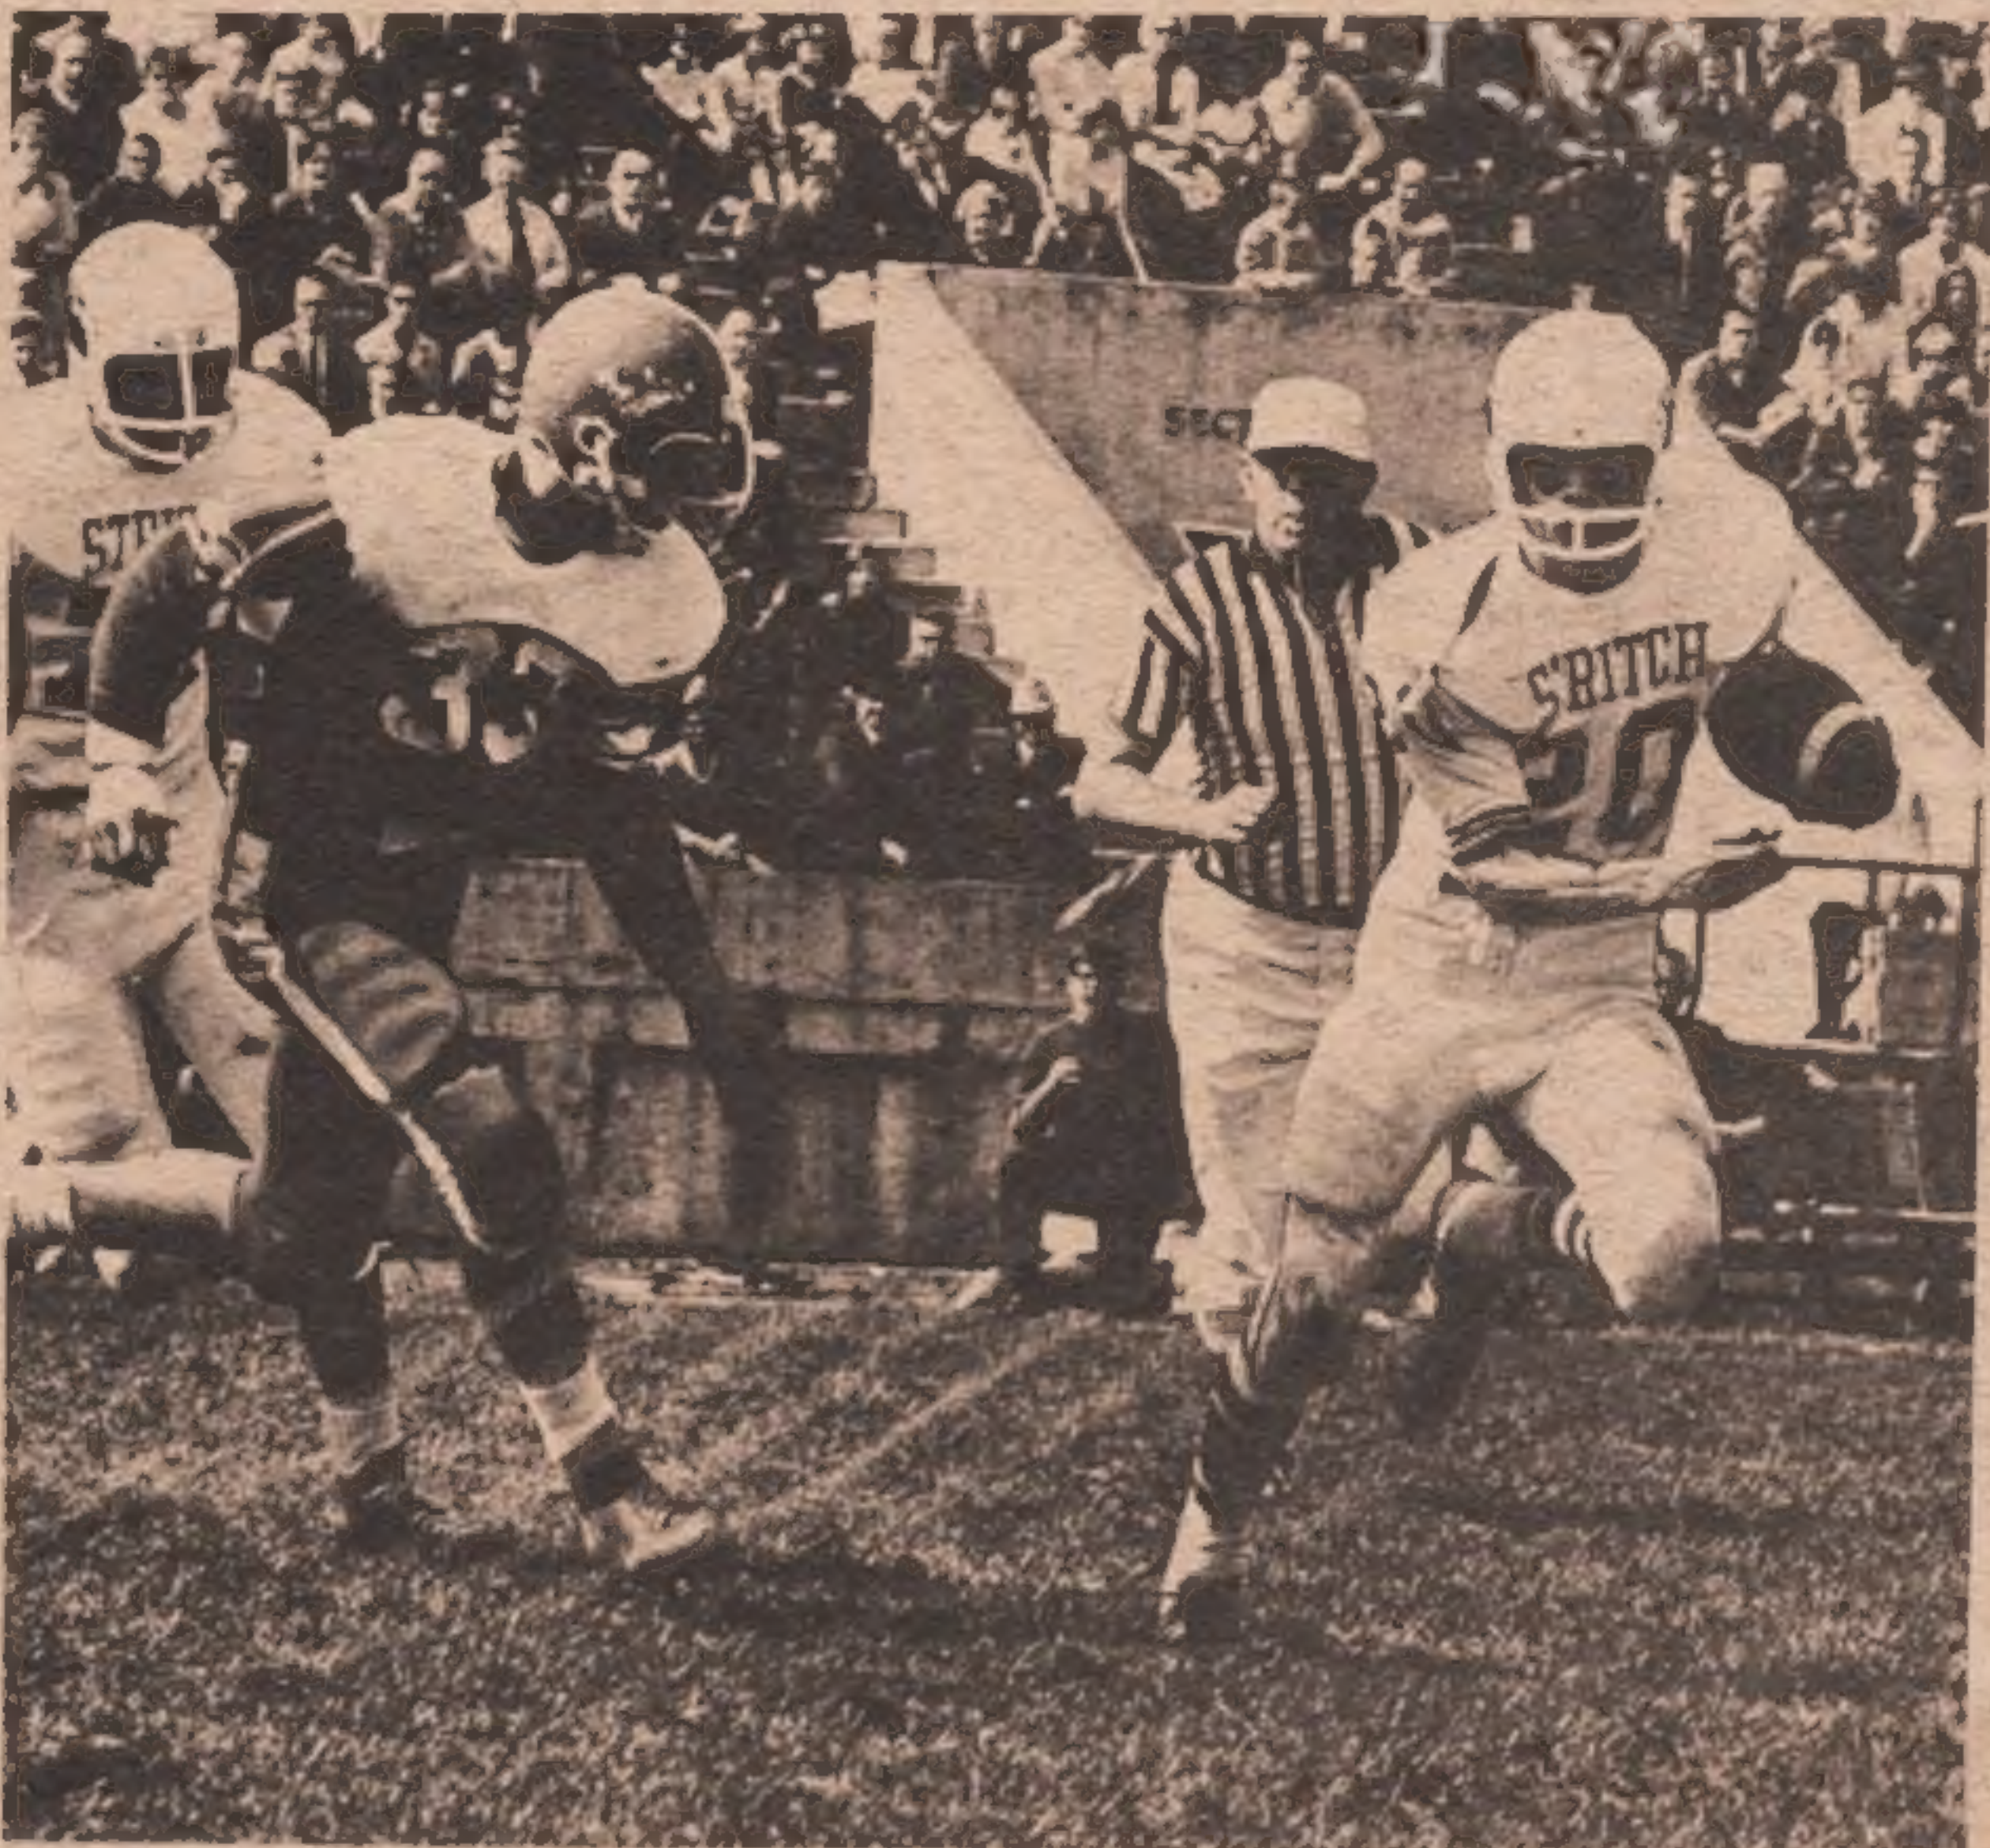

With the Generals' looking to even their record and the Cards wanting to keep their string of homecoming victories to four, it should be a hard hitting and a very exciting game.

According to Head Coach Mr. Veith, "This '67 version of the General 'II' is tough as nails."

JV's Downed 6-0 In Final Minute

Clay scored with about one minute remaining in the game and foiled the Stritch junior varsity debut of the 1967 season by the score of 6-0.

The JV's had many opportunities to score but penalties stymied them.

GYM SHORTS

Football Pens 'In'

by JIM JACKSON

Did you know that early football teams played without shoulder pads and helmets? Ball carriers had straps on their uniforms so teammates could pull them towards the goal.

Have you seen everybody using pens with the Stritch football schedule on it? That really shows the spirit here at Stritch; or could it show just how much influence the coaches have around here?

There is a freshman guy that has some big shoes to fill but so far he's doing a great job. The guy I'm talking about is Kirk Packo and the shoes are Paul "Doc" Dusseau's as trainer of the varsity football team. Kirk is the nurse-maid for everybody's moans and groans which he handles the best he can.

Scream and Yell

by LOIS MARAZON

The spirit at the games has been tremendous, but cheer with the cheerleaders. They're not screaming their lungs out just to be outdone by an unorganized group of shouting students.

Seniors! We are getting a lot of competition from the juniors on "Battlecry." I know the seniors have bigger mouths, because they're older.

Let's get high for tonight's game! Talk quietly all day and conserve your vocal chords so the "Stritch Spirit" will shake the walls of Clay Stadium.

Congratulations! Janice Reynolds and Chris Zellner are the newly selected majorettes.

Cardinals Still Undefeated; Record Stands At 2-0-1

The Stritch Cardinals defeated the Waite Indians by a score of 20-0 in the season opener at Clay Stadium Sept. 9.

The offensive attack of the Indians was literally stopped with only 38 yards rushing and 14 yards passing. Three of their five passes were knocked down, two by Mike Daunhauer.

The only thing that stopped the Cardinals offensively were high winds and penalties. Jim Enck scored one TD and was the leading ground gainer.

Bill Kamelesky and Marty Skeldon were the other two scorers while Tom Aubry went two for three in extra points.

Traveling to Lima, Stritch drew with Central Catholic 20-20.

Down by twelve points in the second quarter, a 70 yard punt returned by Jim Enck and a conversion by Tom Aubry accounted for Stritch's first 7 points.

Two Stritch TD's in the third quarter brought the score to 20-12. The goals were scored by Bill Kamelesky's pass to Tom Mutchler and a run by Marty Skeldon, with Aubry kicking the extra points.

Lima's touchdown and crucial 2 extra points came late in the fourth quarter, tying the score at 20-20.

With Jim Enck scoring three times and Marty Skeldon twice, Stritch rolled over Fremont St. Joe 33-12.

Enck's three TD's included one on a 30 yard screen pass, another on a 50 yard throw back, and the third on a 4-yard plunge through the middle of the line.

Skeldon's two 6-pointers were on a 60 yard punt return and a twenty yard quick hitter. Skeldon also added a two point conversion and Jim Jackson added the thirty-third point with a PAT.

Introducing Heinz Bartsch, German Exchange Student

by JUDI TARSHA

"Hallo schuler von Kardinal Stritch, Ich heisse Heinz Bartsch."

This greeting comes from one of Germany's newest exports, Heinz Bartsch, who is currently honoring the halls of Stritch. Heinz, who hails from the city of Wilhelmshaven in Lower Saxony, is Stritch's first foreign exchange student.

His stay in America was made possible through "Youth For Understanding," a student exchange program designed to promote the understanding of how youth live in other countries.

After being informed of this program by one of his teachers, Heinz applied for it and soon afterwards was invited to a meeting and interview in which he was judged on his intelligence, awareness of current events, and personality. In the spring of 1967 he received his official acceptance and left from Amsterdam, The Netherlands, on August 13.

Heinz previously attended "Gymnasium," a German school for higher learning. Students there had only six weeks of summer vacation and attended school six days a week. He participated in many sports at school, including soccer and handball. Swimming and soccer are his favorite sports.

Heinz enjoys being a Stritch student very much since he finds the kids both friendly and interesting. He also likes the modern building. He does, however, miss the 10 minute break between each class and the one hour lunch break which he had in his former school.

Heinz is currently taking American History, English III, Government, Religion IV, Physiology, and Math IV. He plans to go on to college and become an English teacher.

In his spare time he pursues some of his many interests which include sports, photography, and all kinds of music.

According to Heinz, there are no vast differences between American and German teenagers; but they cannot obtain their driver's licenses until they reach 18. Styles differ somewhat also. The boys in Germany wear their hair long and never wear Bermudas, while the girl's wardrobes consist mostly of miniskirts and short-shorts.

Heinz plans to attend most of Stritch's social events and says that he is quite interested in our school and therefore wants to take part in all facets of high school life. When asked what the most enjoyable thing about being a teenager in America is, Heinz replied, "To be able to learn new and different things and to make many friends."

CSMC To Present Assembly At Stritch

Fr. William Westhoven, CP, will be the guest speaker at the annual mission assembly on Thursday, October 5. Introducing him will be Fr. W. Evans Wilson, the diocesan moderator for the missions, who comes to Stritch every year for the assembly.

All newly elected Mission representatives and alternates will be introduced before the student body.

Marie Christie, president of the CSMC, will present Fr. Wilson with a check for $100, which has been donated through the homerooms.

Aiding the CSMC this year will be Sr. Mary Janceen.

Study, prayer, and sacrifice will be the three goals of the Mission Club this year.

Fr. Auth Goes Spirit Stays

by JEFF HAUTER

Fr. James Auth, last year's assistant principal, returned to Cardinal Stritch High School Tuesday, Sept. 19, for an assembly in his honor.

Fr. Auth has given up his assistant principal role to step into a new one—the one of a student. He is now attending Catholic University in Washington, D. C., to study Canon Law.

Fr. Auth attended high school at Central Catholic college at St. Gregory's Seminary in Cincinnati, Ohio. He also studied at the North American College in Rome.

He was ordained a priest Dec. 20, 1961.

Among Fr. Auth's assistant principal's duties, he was the policeman of the Stritch parking lot, and moderator of Young Christian Students and the Servers and Readers club. He also taught religion classes.

Fr. Auth was noted as a great American sportsman until he had a mishap. He wrapped himself around a tree while skiing in Michigan. Due to this he had his arm in a sling for a few weeks.

The assembly consisted of guest speakers who related their feelings and the feelings of the students toward Fr. Auth.

The speakers included Msgr. Michael Walz, principal, Mr. Gross, dean of students, Sr. M. Venard, head of the Latin department, and Fr. John Nowak, new assistant principal.

The special guest speakers were Miss Julie "Chet" Harshman and Miss Jeannine "David" Sheibley, faculty members, who did a "broadcast" on Fr. Auth's historical events at Stritch.

Finally Father Auth gave a few closing comments and said good bye.

As was said, Fr. Auth is gone; but his spirit and enthusiasm stays.

Stritch To Host Religion Courses

Adult Religion Education Classes will open to both Catholic and non-Catholics starting Sept. 26.

They will be held on every Tuesday until Nov. 21 at Cardinal Stritch, Notre Dame, and McAuley High Schools, and at Lourdes Junior College in Sylvania from 8 to 10 PM.

The speakers at Stritch will be Fr. Robert J. Camp, of Rosary Cathedral and Fr. Robert Thomas, of St. Vincent de Paul.

Rutter Speaks At JA Assembly

Applause was given to Mr. Thomas Rutter, representative of Junior Achievement, when he announced that the colors for Junior Achievement were red and black—the same as Stritch's.

J.A. was the subject of guest speaker Mr. Rutter, at an assembly held Friday, Sept. 15, in the auditorium.

Mr. Rutter discussed the functions and advantages of J.A., how big businesses help sponsor it, and also gave a general insight into J.A.

He had applications for anyone who wished to join Junior Achievement.

Rev. James Auth, who succeeded Fr. Michael Ricker as assistant principal, is now at Catholic University.

CLASS NEWS

All the classes, freshman through senior met in the auditorium to discuss matters for the year.

Msgr. Michael Walz, principal, spoke at all the meetings.

The seniors discussed class spirit, the magazine drive, and the seniors' showing of respect at assemblies.

There was also some discussion about the senior homecoming float and homecoming decorations.

Chairmen were chosen for the senior booth at the annual Harvest Festival.

Mr. Robert Castelli, Guidance Director, informed the assembly of "College Night" at Central Catholic High School, Sept. 20.

Sr. M. Avita, the senior class advisor, was present at the meeting.

A net profit of $225 was made by the junior class at their car wash on Sept. 17.

The juniors used the Sohio gas station at Navarre and Stadium, the Gulf station at Delancey and East Broadway, and the Pure station on Woodville at the Great Eastern Shopping Center.

The chairmen were Judy Dippman, Coleen Cashman, and Linda Tscherne.

The price was $1.00 for a car wash and $1.25 for whitewalls.

The car wash was planned by the junior class officers who met with Msgr. Michael Walz principal during the summer.

The juniors discussed class spirit, cooperation, and leadership at their meeting.

The chairmen for the car wash were selected, and the class decided on the theme of its homecoming spirit float—Happiness Is A Stritch Victory.

The junior booth at the Harvest Festival was also mentioned.

Sr. Louis de Montfort, the junior advisor, was at the meeting.

At their meeting, the sophomores discussed their homecoming spirit float. It will bear the inscription "Beat Generals."

Chapel Swings With Guitar Strings

"To make the liturgy a more meaningful experience," answered Fr. Edward Schlageter, religion teacher, when asked why guitar music has been added to accompany the singing at Wednesday Masses.

Also in line with the homecoming, the duties of the sophomores at the dance were discussed. These include taking coats and providing refreshments.

The class also mentioned ways in which they could make money for the class.

Msgr. Walz wished them good luck and remarked that he hoped that their class would be a good one.

Sr. M. Venard, the sophomore class moderator, addressed them concerning their spirit and cooperation in school events.
